TROUBLE OVER A "PEACE FENCE"

Neighbors on Sansom Hill Air Their Fued Before Court—August Drach Must Pay Most of Costs—The Splitter Women Defendants, are Acquitted.

Another chapter in the long list of litigation between residents on Sansom's hill, Old York road, below Hatboro, was closed this week, when Mrs. Sybil Spittler and her daughter, Hattie, were acquitted of assault and battery and malicious mischief.

The charges were preferred by August Drach, their neighbor, and the trial was before Judge Swartz, at Norristown.

Drach and his neighbors had had trouble before, which had resulted in suits before a justice of the peace. Drach then built a high board fence between the properties. Drach said the barrier, which was eight feet high, was not really a "peace" fence, as some had called it. It was a "peace" fence, he declared, and its purpose was to prevent Mrs. Spittler and her daughter from watching what occurred on the Drach premises.

"There were two foot locks in this fence and these I covered by nailing shingles over them," Drach testified. "Then Mrs. Spittler and her daughter came to the fence and tried to knock the shingles off. They threatened to kill me, and called me a 'chicken thief'." Drach declared that he had been thrown on the ground.

Mrs. Spittler, who is 64 years old, denied the truth of the charges. She said she had not tried to knock off the shingles Drach had placed over the knot holes. What she had attempted to do, she explained, was to clinch the nails which her neighbor had driven through his fence. She said the charges were the result of spite and that the prosecutor had been harassing them for four years.

On the malicious mischief charge the verdict directed that all costs be borne by Drach. On the other charge Drach was ordered to pay three-fourths of the costs, the Spittlers the remaining one-fourth.

CONVICTED OF TWO BURGLARIES

Edward Walton, Who was Hit Over the Head by Lafayette Larue, While Committing Robbery at Huntingdon Valley, is Found Guilty—Elderly Woman by Abington Police Chief led to Capture.

Edward Walton, also known as Edward Nittenberger, a notorious burglar, was tried and convicted this week at Norristown court, of forcing an entry into the house of Lafayette Larue and of robbing the residence of Dr. J. Moore Willard, both at Huntingdon Valley.

The robbery took place December 9, 1909, in the early morning. Larue heard the robbers, for there were two of them, at work on his window. He arose and taking a bass ball but quietly went downstairs and waited developments. Very soon the burglar came back from the window and Larue saw the burglar's shoulders of a man armed crawling over the sill. Larue, who is a blacksmith and a muscular man, hit the intruder over the head with the ball.

His blow was a fearful one and it knocked the robber back from the window down to the porch floor. Larue then laid a lamp and examined the burglar, who lay apparently dead on the porch. Blood was flowing from a cut and Larue thought he had finished the thing. He went upstairs to dress and upon his return was surprised to find the burglar gone, leaving a big pool of blood where he had lain.

Shortly after the thieves had been driven from the Larue residence they went to the home of Dr. Willard, near by, where they forced an entrance, and stole clothing, silverware, and blood spots on the porch and in the house showed that the same individuals committed both crimes.

Excellent detective work on the part of Chief Lever, of the Abington police, resulted several months later in the capture of Walton in Camden, where he had been identified by Larue. He was then committed to Norristown jail for trial, which came off this week.

Walton, who was 35 years old, was positively identified by Walton as the man who was climbing through the window.

The jury was not long in bringing in a verdict of guilty of both crimes. Walton is said to have privately admitted that he and another man, who was a partner in the crime, had been guilty parties. Walton is said to be long to a respectable family in Germantown, and was married and had a family before. He will probably get long sentence.

The jury was not long in bringing in a verdict of guilty of both crimes. Walton is said to have privately admitted that he and another man, who was a partner in the crime, had been guilty parties. TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Under a ruling of the Post Office Department at Washington, which went into effect on January 1st, 1908, publishers of weekly newspapers are not permitted to extend credit to a subscriber for a longer period than one year. Names of subscribers who have not paid their subscription for a period of one year or more must be taken off the list of the publisher is liable to a penalty.

We are therefore sending out bills to all subscribers who owe a year or more, and have instructed our collector, Edwin Kirk, to call this ruling to the attention of those from whom he collects.

Prompt settlement is urged, or accounts must be placed in the hands of attorneys.

We have no choice in this matter as much as we would be willing to favor certain cases.

The PUBLIC SPIRIT must comply with this ruling of the United States Government.

THE MOST IMPORTANT PIECE of legislation passed recently by Hatboro Council was an ordinance granting certain privileges to The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

This ordinance has been duly acted upon by the Rapid Transit Company, but has never been published.

When asked about this failure to publish, a councilman said that Borough Council was advised by its attorney that there was no legal necessity for publishing this or any other ordinance.

For the information of our readers, we would say that Hatboro is the only borough, with which we are acquainted, that does not publish its ordinances.

There has been considerable criticism of council by citizens, who have wished to learn the terms of the ordinance.

To partially allay this criticism several typewritten copies of the ordinance have this week been stuck up on trees about the town.

If a citizen and taxpayer wishes to learn what the local lawmakers have done he must hunt the information. Council evidently does not intend to give his rights any consideration.

Just what motive actuates Council is hard to say. It cannot be economy, as it is presumed that ordinary business foresight on the part of the local lawmakers, would have placed the cost of advertising an ordinance for the benefit of a corporation upon that corporation.

All the ordinances heretofore passed by Hatboro Council have been published in the Public Spirit, which always has freely aided in every movement for the public welfare, and citizens naturally wonder at the change of policy.

What is the reason? Can it be that some of the councilmen, while under the criticism in the columns of the original sneak unways adopted to enter and fine unwary motorists, are trying to get back against the Spirit? Looks so, doesn't it?

If that is the reason, the Spirit is sorry for the small meanness of our peasant statesmen.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME.

Much difficulty was experienced by firemen in getting water to fight a fire Wednesday morning in the home of Dr. T. Fassett, at Birch Lane and Montgomery avenue, two miles from Chestnut Hill. The building was destroyed, the loss being estimated at $15,000. Volunteer fire companies from Montgomery, Germantown and other places responded, but the flames had gained so great headway that it became necessary to send to Chestnut Hill for aid.

TEN COWS TWO HORSES BURNED

The barn of Mrs. Rebecca Evans, at Limerick township, fifteen miles from Norritown, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night, entailing several thousands of dollars loss. Ten cows, two horses, one hundred chickens, many turkeys, implements and grain were burned up.

"ADVERTISING IN THE SPIRIT PAYS"

The PUBLIC SPIRIT of Hatboro, Pa., is the best paper in which to advertise public sale of the well-to-do class. Why the SPIRIT? Because of its advantageous location and widespread circulation among the well-to-do class. It is not only read by all the people in a wide scope of country with Hatboro as a center, but it goes to dealers in Philadelphia, Germantown and elsewhere. If you want to reach people who attend sales, advertise in the SPIRIT.

The SPIRIT job department turns out attractive notices on good paper, with catchy display and cuts, at moderate prices, for prompt work.

We will make an advance announcement of the date, place and character of coming sales under this head free, as are given both the poster printing and the sale is advertised in our paper. In all other cases the charges for advance announcements will be 50 cents. Secure your date early so as not to conflict with other sales in the local locality.

ROYAL Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is more economical at its price than any other leavening agent, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.

Mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food. In England, France, Germany and some sections of the United States their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a dangerous mineral acid, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

The label of alum baking powders must show the ingredients.

streets free of charge.

The idea that any kind of ground is good enough for poultry runs is a mistake. Stagnant, lumpy, sticky ground spells failure. Avoid a crop of windy location, and beware of a low place where fog hangs.

A poultry farm at Newtown, Pa., has 1,500 peach trees ready to bear. Think of the profit on that fruit alone without mentioning returns from 3,000 laying Leghorn hens.

"Sentimentality" as applied by Mr.
Roosevelt to British rule in Egypt
may also be applied to the farm.
There is no money in farming on some farms because the farmer will not use the ax on old hens that swallow the profit and antedivine cove that

If you have thermometers of the same style and make and their scales begin at the same point you had better test them well before using. Thermometer glass should be seasoned, and each instrument should have its individual test scale. Thus the scales of best thermometers may differ as to starting point, but they register alike.

TREVOSE

J. R. VanSant, of Frankford, spent Sunday at Oakford, with Maurice VanSant and family.

Rev. Jeremiah Brandreth will preach at Somerton on Conference Sunday for Mr. Johnson, pastor of the M. E. church there.

There is a rumor, persistent in its repetitions but scarcely well founded, that a building or series of structures will ere long be assembled upon a tract of land, on the south side of the Reading railway, midway between Oakford and Trevose, for monastic purposes.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Somerton, addressed a large gathering of men in the town hall on Thursday night. His subject was "The American Flag." Charles E. Schuyler, of Trevose, also spoke to the same assemblage about "Four Kings of Soldiers," namely: The American soldier, military men whose rulers are autocrats, mercenary men of any country who take the service only for the wage, and also the Christian soldier.

Twenty years ago the wage-earner and others who turned weekly to the country for a holiday of pastoral enjoyment and to glide in boats upon placid waters, listening dreamily to the murmurings of magnetic mists, gathered at Neshameny Falls park. But there came a change and the succeeding years saw the park almost deserted for other places of amusement, save the occasional fisherman, who bobbed wistfully for eels. Nevertheless, although the buildings decayed and boats rested idly upon the ragged shores, sometimes buried by the fallen leaves and the dead branches of disconsolate trees, nothing could destroy the real heart of the beauty which nature, ever divinely wise, lays here and there upon favored hillides and valleys revered. Meanwhile, the property passed into other hands and rested slothfully for two decades. And now it is again sold and more than twenty thousand dollars will be expended upon new buildings and things necessary to open the coming season as befits the location. The river—and we may call it such, because greater by far than many so-called rivers of some western states—has a wider sweep and a greater length for boating than ever before, since the new dam was built. The resort will henceforth be known as Poplar Park, and when fair summer appears it is expected that thousands of pleasure-seekers will find in this vicinity that end of the Reading railway, midway between Oakford and Trevose, that is "rest for the weary."

HOW

I Was Cured of Malaria

"I was for over five years troubled with Malarial Fever. It would almost always come on in the Spring and would bother me for the remainder of the summer. I tried different medicines, but they did not seem to help me. I finally had the doctor call on me some time but the next year I would be troubled just the same and I would have to be at home for several weeks. I would be in bed one day and have chills and a heavy fever, and the next day I would be up about the house, and this is the way I would be for several weeks each summer.

"I finally decided to try some good blood medicine, so I began taking Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and found it did me lots of good. I began taking it early in the spring and continued taking it all through the summer. I found, after taking a few bottles, that my body was covered with pimples, and it seemed to drive all the humor out of my blood. After that I felt much better, and now I am just as healthy as ever I was, and I am never troubled with Malarial Fever."—George F. Sarno, 35 Grove-land Street, Lynn, Mass. Thousands of people believe in

Pinkham's Blood Purifier

Malaria is caused by a parasite which gets into the blood, and unless the blood is in a healthy condition and has normal resisting properties, they attack and destroy the red corpuscles, and so seriously impair the general health.

Chills and fever are the most marked symptoms of Malaria, which can be cured by purifying and enriching the blood. Mr. Strong found that Pinkham's Blood Purifier cured him after all other means had failed, and what it did for Mr. Strong it will do for other sufferers.

Of Interest To Farmers FOR ORCHARD OWNERS

Department of Agriculture Arranges Programme for its Public Demonstrations.

The Division of Zoology of the Department of Agriculture, in charge of H. A. Surface, economic zoologist, is about to open the spring campaign of instruction in the demonstration plots, or "model orchards" of the State, of which there are 250. Eighty of these public meetings were held last fall, and the remainder will make up the spring programme. There will be lectures and demonstrations on pest control and the principles of horticulture. Two representatives of the State will be at each meeting.

An interesting feature of this work is the Model Orchard Plot. In each of the orchards where public meetings are held a section of trees is being cared for by the demonstrators to serve as a sample of the manner in which the entire orchard, and for the most part all other orchards in the vicinity, should be handled. The exercises at these meetings are informal and all persons are invited to ask questions and submit in writing their interests, and bring specimens of infected and diseased twigs for identification.

This work is different and distinct from the supervision orchard work which was carried on during the winter, when about 1000 orchards were visited, and the treatment begun under the direction and personal assistance of the horticultural inspectors of the Division of Zoology.

The spring schedule of public meetings held in the Demonstration Orchards during this and next month is in part as follows:

March 13—H. L. Shelly, Quakertown, Bucks county.

March 15—H. T. Adams, Keller's Church, Bucks county.

March 16—School of Horticulture for Women, near Ambler, Montgomery county.

March 18—O. D. Nathans, Centre Bridge, Bucks county.

March 20—George C. Buckman, Newtown, Bucks county.

March 21—National Farm School, Farm School, Bucks county.

March 22—Charles A. Liverzey, Spring House, Montgomery county.

THE STORY OF THE ENGLISH BIBLE.

With examples of Hebrew and Greek originals, and going on to the Latin Vulgate, which really brought the Bible into England. The printed or book section starts with a copy of the first example of a version of the Bible printed in England, this being Tyndale's New Testament, produced in 1526.

Other examples of printed work show all editions produced by private individuals from Tyndale's time down to the first edition of the Authorized Version in 1611, when the special committee appointed seven years before by James I. to revise the Bible put forth the result of their labors.

Among the early texts of the Bible the Museum possesses one great treasure, the Codex Alexandrinus. This manuscript was presented by a Sultan of Turkey to Charles II. Two other great codices, or early manuscripts, are shown in facsimile—the Sinaitic and the Vaticanus. The former was discovered in a monastery on Mount Sinai by the great German scholar, Tischendorf.

Another section of this tercentenary exhibition will consist of a set of "Peculiar Bibles"—editions which, because of some typographical or other error, have become famous and known by such fanciful names as the Vinegar Bible, the Tree Bible, the Wicked Bible and the Bug Bible, to mention only a few. There are about twenty of these peculiar Bibles in all, each with a definite history for its odd nickname. For example, an authorized edition of the Bible was printed in London in 1531, by Robert Barker and Martin Lucas, which is known as the Wicked Bible, because the negative was left out of the Seventh Commandment. The King ordered that the printers should be fined 3,000 pounds. Only four copies of this Bible are known to be in existence.

The Treacle Bible, issued in 1568, was so named from its rendering of Jeremiah VIII. 22: "Is there no treacle in Gilead?" instead of the word "balm." The Bug Bible, which bears the date 1551, won its distinctive title through a queer rendering of Psalm XCII. 5, where the word "bug" is substituted for "terror," making the text read: "Thou shalt not be afraid for the bug by night." Then there is the Vinegar Bible, which, instead of the "Parable of the vineyard," we read the "Parable of the vinegar." This occurred in the chapter heading of Luke XX. in an Oxford edition of the authorized version published in 1717. This book was the most suspicious of the Oxford editions, gotten out by a printer named Basket, some of the copies being printed on vellum. Owing to carelessness proceeding all through it, it was dubbed "a basketful of errors."

There is also on exhibition the most valuable printed book in the whole world—a copy of the Gutenberg Bible, which was printed at Mainz, in Germany. Experts say that its present-day value would be difficult to determine, since no copy has recently come into the market at any of the sales of rare books in London. Yet it is known that its price and its value have steadily advanced. In 1854 a copy sold for 3,500 pounds; in 1897 the Ashburnham copy on vellum sold for 4,000 pounds. The late Robert Hoe predicted that it would not be long before a copy of the rare Gutenberg Bible would easily fetch fifty thousand dollars.

The English Bible is in itself an epitome of the struggles and advances of the English-speaking races. The King James Bible engaged forty-seven of the best scholars of their day, involuing on their part many years of labor. When printed it made 1,464 large folio pages, laboriously set by hand and printed from cumbersome wood-type on the primitive and slow-going presses of the period. Nowadays it is set up by linotype machines and printed on steam or electric power presses that turn out thousands of sheets an hour. In it we find the origins of our standards of law and literature, our moral code, and our ideas of human equality and freedom. It is fitting, then, that English-speaking countries and peoples all over the globe should celebrate the tercentenary of The Book with reverence, joyfulness and thanksgiving.
